An aerial photograph of a village, likely in a rural European setting, surrounded by a patchwork of agricultural fields. The village is centrally located, featuring a dense cluster of buildings with dark roofs and some greenery. The surrounding fields are divided into irregular shapes, with some appearing as golden-brown (possibly harvested or fallow) and others as green (possibly crops in growth). A prominent road or path runs through the village. The entire image is framed by a thin red border. In the top-left corner, the number '2' is displayed in a white, bold font.
